

i World Book Day, donation and Quentin Blake Trip

Today, the pupils across the school took part in a variety of activities to mark World Book Day. Firstly, it was great to see a variety of different book character costumes worn by the children.

We also put on display the scenes the children had created in boxes to represent a particular book. We were truly delighted at the response to this activity, so thank you to all the families who supported your child/children to make these, they looked fabulous.

During the day the children in each class have participated in book related activities, including those prepared for by the children in Class 3 for the 2 other classes.

This morning's Sharing Assembly also gave us a chance to share information about Class 1 & 2's recent visit to the Quentin Blake exhibition at Haverhill Museum, looking at the illustrator's and author's work, and to show off some of the non-fiction books we had purchased to support curriculum topic areas, following a very kind donation of £300 from an ex-pupil Tom Cannon, of Cannon Architectural Design Ltd.
